Since 2013, RipTiger has been one of the most downloaded video downloader apps available for Android. Its simple and intuitive UI makes it easy for users to upload videos from their phone or tablet or from any other source they wish, as well as download them without any DRM restrictions using a lightning fast downloading speed of up to 25 Mbps. In addition, RipTiger supports a wide range of file types – MP3, MOV, AVI – which means that users have a number of options to choose from when selecting their media files. Users can even download their videos to an external storage device or media player, which is ideal for those who want to download the videos they have stored on their device onto another one. After you have downloaded RipTiger software on your mobile device or tablet you can begin uploading your video files. There are several ways to upload videos with RipTiger app. The most simple option is just dragging and dropping files into the program folder, where the program will then automatically crop your video before converting it into a file of your choice. Another option is to upload files through your browser, which can be done by simply clicking on the "Upload" button and selecting a video from the list of available video sources (YouTube, Vimeo etc.). The third option is to upload videos via http post request. This can be done by browsing for a file using your browser and pressing the upload button. Once you have uploaded your media files, you can choose how you would like them to be downloaded. All of RipTiger's downloads are encoded with H.264 in order to save space and improve quality. There are also two different download options: CBR and VBR. VBR is a variable bitrate, which means that the program will use the highest possible quality for that file, but has no set bitrate. CBR stands for Constant BitRate. This means that the program will always reach a maximum bitrate. Not only is RipTiger an easy to use video downloader, it's also free! All users need to do in order to gain full access to the program is register an account on RipTiger Ultimate website and enter their email address. This will give users access to all of RipTiger's features, including its Download Later feature which allows users to prepare videos to be downloaded in advance at their convenience.
